The Invitation

Invitation? An invitation to celebrate? This year was like any other year: boring. There were a few good times, but what is there to celebrate about school???

Many students felt this way, and many probably still do. But this book has captured the memories of the year to show and remind us of the many different and exciting things that did happen. The invitation states: All students of Whittier Christian High School are invited to celebrate with us the nineteen hundred and eighty-four to eighty-five school year. In order to celebrate, the good things that took place must first be recalled. Disregard the petty problems, the worries, and the disappointments. Remember them as times of growing and learning. Concentrate instead upon the many things, often minute and remote from the immediate circumstances, that brought gladness and excitement.

Whether it was a particularly fun lunch time, and encouragement, the feeling of being loved and supported by friends, realizing that God was working in your life, or even going out of the way to make someone else feel better, there were plenty of special moments. Then also remember the times of laughter. The crazy times with friends, the jokes in class, and the sometimes wild weekends. Recall cheerful times past.

With the turning of every page, remember the many occasions of joy. Along with the invitation to celebrate the memories of the past year, rejoice in the little moments of gladness that occur every day. But now, come join the Guests and Chaperones in Entertainment and Games and welcome to the party of 1984-85!!

1. Doug Irwin, Kraig Johnson, and Aaron Arrendondo are a few of the less studious Study Hall students. 2. Danny Sampson cannot seem to understand his NASB Bile version while John Harris finds reading the Living Bible quite enjoyable. 3. Appearing to have everything under control, Garret Mallard gives his best G.Q. glance. 4. The beginning of another school day does not get Terryl Moulton, Brian Kiphen, Terra Stephens, and Julie Webb down. 5. Sandra Gooss and Lynette Horabaker, in mourning, shed few tears at the death of Valley.

To Celebrate

hroughout the year all students had reasons to be happy.

Because each of us had different personalities, we had things to celebrate that were special only to us and to our friends. Although we had varied likes and interests, our common bond in the Lord was still the basis for being here together.

Our differences were not at all hard to perceive. Contrasting styles of dress could be noticed in just watching students walk by in the hallways. Some people wore neon, others lacy outfits. A few wore all black, some stayed preppy, and many just dressed like they always had. Diverse and unique habits and priorities brought people of identical thought together as friends. Who can forget the cliques of cheerleaders, band members, hard studiers, trendies, and sports players?

But something still pulled us together as one school - Christ was our bond. As Christians, we had the love and Spirit of Christ within us. He invited the world to share in our joy and celebration by giving us the gift of abundant and eternal life through Jesus Christ. Learning more about this gift and how to share it was one of the main purposes of going to Whittier Christian rather than a public high school.

Though we were all very different, Christ's gift was given to each of us and all were invited to celebrate this life with one another

L Kathy Boggio, Maria Hammer, and Pam Stockwell prepare for a modeling career. 2. Candy Cone and Becky Tippin definitely have spirit and "problem hair," 3, Rich Wierenga and his dog Spot. 4. Michelle Cluck and Andrea Burns proudly strut school colors, 5. Matt Rudametkin just washed his hair and could not do a thing with It.

ow many times did we students worry about something for a long time, and then discover that the very thing that was bothering us was really no great problem? Looking back we remember the good times, the times we rejoiced. Regardless of the immediate pressures, each of us had so many reasons to celebrate.

The year did hold many, many little worries. Looking right, getting good grades, winning that game, getting home before curfew, and going to the right college were just a few. However, when we recall how long we pressured ourselves to distraction trying to impress that special person, or whatever our particular problem, we see that the whole ordeal was absurd; the Lord had everything worked out beforehand and no feelings of distress could have changed His will.

Parents always told us "high school years are the best ones of your life." Somehow, with all the worrying and the 'big' decisions, we had, at times, forgotten all that the Lord had done to make our lives happy. But reflecting today, the good times were when we did not let the worries get us down and enjoyed ourselves as if carefree.

Beyond the recognition of past happiness we realize present joys. In looking back to the happiest times of the 1984-85 year, we invite all to celebrate this present moment, as well as each moment hereafter, praising the Lord for all He has done.

here are some people who live a life in which they celebrate the presents joys, regardless of the immediate troubles. This does not mean that everything about their life is perfect. but that their personality does not allow the negatives to get them down and depressed for any length of time. These people stand out in the crowd, and more often than not, are admired for this ability Coach Tom Caffrey is this type of person, and he has served as an example for all in the past twelve years at Whittier Christian

Each year, Coach Caffrey initiated freshmen to Whittier Christian Bible classes. Here he had a valid and potent ministry exemplifying a joy filled life and sharing Biblical truths. Students remember him as being very giving and usually having a happy and high spirit (especially on his birthday and before big games!). His success in relating to freshmen was certainly a reason to celebrate

A large part of Mr Caffrey's life was devoted to coaching the football team Following the victory in the 1983 CIF Championships, he once again led the team through a successful season. Some players would describe him as "blazingly happy" after victories. But a major part of his significant dealings with individual players took place in the Wednesday night team Bible studies. Coach enjoyed mixing two very important parts of his life; football and Jesus Christ Stressing unity. Coach was very open with the players, letting them see the casual Coach Caffrey and a man who loved the Lord, found joy in life, and played foot ball. Some characterized him as one who was "always laughing about football stories" but, on his serious side "stands up for what he believes."

Coach Caffrey was also very involved with his family and church. Certainly, taking care of six children and a wife, Sarah, requires a lot of time. His son, Steve, said that although they are a busy family, they do "take time to be together as a family after football games and after church " He also said that his father "gets happier the older he becomes, the longer he stays at Whittier Christian, and the better the team does." Coach also enjoyed himself in the fellowship he received at Granada Heights Friends Church He was pitcher for the softball team during the summer and participated in the Phileo group While there, he added to the entertain ment and fun with anecdotes about past games and with his general friendly personality

A special thanks to Coach Tom Cal frey He has been an example to all of a man who celebrated life and loved the Lord We celebrate him by dedicating this issue of the Trumpet to Coach Caffrey

Dedicated Director

ne of the many dedicated teachers at Whittier Christian was Miss Dobrenen, the Junior class sponsor. She and her assistant Mrs. Friesen, were responsible for organizing and coordinating the activities of the Junior class council

Miss Dobrenen's high school Spanish teacher showed real enthusiasm about being with students and Miss Dobrenen saw this as her motivation for getting involved. Miss Dobrenen's goal for the council was to have them develop a servant's attitude. She appreciated their enthusiasm and noted that they were learning to be more organized. When asked if she saw any special characteristics about the class of '85, she said. "They enjoy being with each other - some can't bear to be separated for one class."

BRIAN

Brian Szerenyi was the junior counterpart of the chaplaincy for this past year. He felt led to be chaplain after last year's Bible classes and chapels changed his attitude and he realized what a privilege it is to be a Christian. He hoped that the chapels gave the students a better understanding of true Christianity. He wanted to challenge the student body as a unit and as individuals with Matthew 5.15 which encourages believers to be good witnesses because he saw "A desire in many students to follow Christ more closely."

Brian enjoys swimming and listening to music. He also likes to run and was a member of the Cross-Country team. Bible was his favorite class because "I learn about God and, to top that off, I get credit for taking the class."

Lunchin' It

ith off-campus privileges still two long years away, sophomores were again confronted with the question of how to fill that half hour called lunch Using their creative ingenuity, the class of '87 did find numerous ways to solve their dilemma, satisfying their appetites at the same time

While some sophomores spent their time socializing, others carefully chose a spot on some bench, wall, or planter in the quad, never to budge from it for the year's entirety. And many were seen every day, waiting to buy their favorite munchies from the student store. The foods most eaten didn't change much from past years, though, mom was still brown-bagging it for the majority.

When asked about lunchtime, one student profoundly replied, "Lunch is getting back to nature ... and ham and cheese sandwiches."

with a new sponsor this year; Mr. Barry Drake became their advisor, taking on the responsibilities that come with this position. His job included organizing class council meetings, helping with fund raisers, and supervising activities. One such activity was the trip to Magic Mountain in November, which seventy-five students attended While Mr. Drake wasn't busy with his sponsorial duties, he enjoyed "coaching soccer, reading, pick ing on students, and watching John Wayne movies." He felt this class had "awesome spirit" (they "love to play!"), but also, they had a great willingness to work. These traits were also seen in this year's council, which was organized and communicated well with their class. Sum marizing Mr. Drake's personality, one student stated, "Yeah dude, I think he's a pretty cool guy!"

his year the Freshman council and sponsor, Mr. Davis, had a very special project. It was a "prayer project" to get the students involved in giving and was promoted by the student council and Mr. Davis in his classes. The goal of the project was to change the students' at titudes towards giving. As Mr. Davis put it, "We would like every student to want to give up one pair of pants." In other words, they wanted the students to be looking for opportunities to give. He hung a pair of jeans in his classroom to illustrate this point. The first chance for the students to respond to this project occurred when weekly collections were taken before Christmas for the famine victims in Ethiopia. When asked for their opinion about this, some students were in different but many reflected that it helped them to have a "better attitude about the offering."

efore the football season began, White er Christian coach Tom Caffrey said, "In order for us to repeat as Inland Conference champs we have to be healthy and a little lucky It's definitely harder to repeat the second time

At Riverside City College Friday, Dec. 7, the Heralds successfully defended that title as Tim-Wharton booted field goals of 21 and 30 yards, and Phil Sterling recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown. Combined with Wharton and Starling's efforts, the Herolds posted a 13. 3 triumph to end the '84 season with a perfect 14.0 ledger. By beating a stubborn OCHS team before a crowd of 3.250, the Heralds extended their two year win streak to 20 games.

The win marked the first time in the school's history that the Heraids had posted an undefeated season WCHS went 10.0 in '81 only to lose to Orange Lutheran in the first round of the play offs

Also, Whittier Christian becomes the fust Inland Conference champ to win back to back titles. since the inception of conference play in 1977. You have to go back to Brea Olinda High to find a team winning back to back 1A titles

The knights held the Heralds to a season low 194 yards offensively Also, OCHS held Mark Octoga, who entered with 1,957 yards to 96 yards on 24 carries. Despite being held for the first time since the Vailey Christian game Ortega limshed the year with 2053 yards. Although held to their lowest offensive output of the season in total yards, WCHS still moved the ball at will against the Kriights. Costly mistakes burt their chances for a biowout. The Heralds turned the ball over four times (three fumbles and an interception)

OCHS coach Hamming said, "WCHS did a good job on the goal line stand. They stopped us That hurt not getting any points before halftime. A held goal would definitely have helped, but the best laid pians of mice and men don't work out sometimes" While Coach Caffrey said, "I'm thrilled to death to repeat as champions. I have to say this," Coffrey added, "this is the best foot ball team that I've ever had. And I've had some good teams but this year's team I have to say is the best one

"Oh, baby! The turning point was that goal and stand," Caffrey said, "Our defense did a job Ontario played us tough. They came right at us with all kinds of formations on oftense and the r defense was just tough. They held Ortega to less than 100 yards and held our offense to a season low 194. I knew going into this game it would be a very tough, tough one. In the first half, Ontario just played better. Our offense would move the ball on them, but then we would get down inside their territory and turn the ball over. Or we couldn't convert on any third down plays.

The final Herald's score came on a 30 yard held goal with 3.15 left by Wharton, who said, "I came in here with revenge. It was the Ontario game that I got hurt. That's when I fractured my neck. I had to play against them one more time. I k cked the ball real well." One couldn't ask for a more stunning finish to a successful year gorous, energetic, persistent and united These words are only a few hat could describe the JV football team The team was recognized this year because of the pride and the hard work of each player. This year two new quarterbacks David Coehlo and Blair Ashworth, played with other new starting freshmen Ryan Rowlands was one of the most noticeable players as he started as running back and was excellent at the position of putside linebacker. Everyone was sorry to hear about Ryan Rowlands breaking his collarbone along with Sean Gerold break ing his wrist

One of the most outstanding games was against Ontario Christian as the team lost two of the best players, unfortunately, but with their determination destroyed them with a score of 35-7. One of the biggest disappointments was the loss against Valley Christian - 28 to 0

"Unity was what the Heraid's JV foct ball team was all about," exclaimed Don

Unruh, "in the games all the different parts of the team had to work together because if the line didn't block well, the running backs had a difficult time increasing yards . . . we all had to work together as one." Solid coaching and a balanced team was what this football season was all about As fans students, and friends, we are extra proud to say the J V football team is part of Whittier Christian High School

The girls enjoyed trying to make their workout fun, but they knew when it was time for a serious workout. The team was led by Sherice Rivers and Stephanie Ortez, Carol Reed, in her first year out, and Tami Ten Elshof provided the team with consistency. There were four other new runners who made contributions - Robin Cook, Denise Dever, Yvonne Quesada and Julie Van Nyhuie. Commented Robin Cook, "I found it rewarding to run; it means a lot to me."

One of the biggest meets of the season was against Ontario Christian, who had won the Olympic League last year. The girls defeated Ontario by seven points. The girls finished 3rd in the Olympic League Championship, but just missed qualifying for the CIF finals after finishing 5th in the preliminary heat. un wild, crazy and dedicated," are some words that could be used to describe the freshman volleyball team. The team had a lot of spirit as well as talent. The girls' spirit came from their eagerness to learn the sport, and the desire they had to work together as a team, as well as many other reasons, as Wendy Miller admits, "I play volleyball so that when I go to the beach in the summer, I can meet cute guys." It was these kinds of attitudes, as well as the freshmen's naturally wild spirit that brought the girls together. Vicky Ruohomaki com mented, "We're growing together as a team " It was the girls' spirit that allowed the team to function as a unit. Coach Kathy Bihr was able to motivate the team to practice hard and to improve. Wendy

Miller claimed, "During the game we're mellow, but during practice, off the court we're hyper." The girls were able to work together and to make their team have a successful year. During the year, a great deal of talent shone through. Coach Bihr stated, "When these girls become a little older, they will make a great team."

The am worked very hard and finished with an 1 6-2 overall record and a 7-3-2 league cord, which put them in 2nd place in the lympic League. Coach Herron also conseed that this was his last year coaching occer and that he really wanted the team to keel. Two of the most valuable players were Brian Culp and Erik Rivera. The J.V. team received a lot of support from the student body. The home games were held at Whittier Christian and each game was filled with enthusiasm and excitement. Runnin' Heralds Dispense dedication and ntelligence were all aspects that the Runnin' Heralds possessed this year. These qualities helped them to capture another Olympic League title, their third straight, and fifth in the last six years. Coach Bill Cuccia described the team as "An extremely dedicated, caring, hard working group," and "the smartest group" that he's had. Looking at the team before the season began, coach Cuccia was just hoping to make it in the playoffs. They had struggled during the early part of the season, but at the Carpenteria Tournament, just after Christmas, they turned things around and started winning consistently

In league play, the Heralds shot off past everyone going 12-0. They then faced Ontario Christian on the second to last game of the regular season and after going down by ten points early, they just coundn't get on track. They finished first, though, in the Olympic League with a 13-1 record, and going into the C.I.F. playoffs, they had won sixteen of their last seventeen games. Danny Swanner had a banner year, passing his brother, Scott Swanner (1984 graduate), in points per game to hold the new WCHS record Dave Murrane, Mike Goodcase, Dean Reihm, and floor leaders Gary Botka and Kevin Chavez also contributed greatly to the Runnin' Heralds successful space.

Some strong players this year included Doug Newby, Dave Burton, and Mike Norman. Although bothered by consisten cy. Coach Phil Underwood felt they had good quickness and shooting ability. An exciting game this year for the J V 's was their league opener against Maranatha. Down by lifteen at the beginning of the fourth quarter, the Heralds fought back to send the game into overtime. o say that the Freshman Baskelba Team had a successful season would be an understatement. They achieved the two main goals they set out to by winning another Olympic League Championship and learning to give their best possible effort evry time they stepped on the court, whether during the games or at practice

Team leaders this season included Erik Martin (scoring leader), Joel Burton (re bounding leader), and Lanny Carrillo (defensive and floor leader). The skills of these players and the enthusiasm and hustle of the rest of the team helped make it a very exciting season

Two of the most exciting games included a game in the first round of league play at Orange Lutheran. The Heralds had been behind the entire game, but with two minutes left in the game, they took the lead and never looked back. Another thriller in cluded the last game of the season against Capo Valley Christian when the Heralds prevailed 53-36. Capo had been the only team to beat the Heralds in league play xcellent, young, hardworking, fun loven, ing, were some of the words Coach alson used to describe the wrestling team. H.S. had an outstanding wrestling team although most of the talent on the team was ery young, they were able to reign suprement the mats and win league. This was the first year that one of the wrestlers made it to CIF, Casey Carroll placed sixth in that competition at Azusa High School. The reason for such success was that the team was very dedicated and also withing to put forth a great deal of effort and hard work Nick Flores and Casey Carroll were able to lead the team to its potential by being examples of outstanding athletes. More than eighty percent of the team were freshmen and sophomores. This young talent promised the continued success for the wrestling team best!" exclaimed Sharon McKendree, Jenna Johnson's mother. A student at Whittier Christian had the opportunity to participate in the Games of the XXIII Olympiad. Her freestyle team achieved victory in the 4 x 100 Relay taking the gold. She received a silver medal in the 100m butterfly. Jenna is very motivated to compete and in the summer of 1984 she had a chance to do just that. The pressure during the time trials was intense and just making the team was a victory for Jenna. After beating Mary T. Meagher at the time trials with a record time, Jenna then had the opportunity to swim against her at the Olympic games. This time, however, Meagher was able to over take Jenna and claim the gold, giving Jenna the opportunity to win the silver for the U.S.

Along with being an emotional high summer for Jenna it also allowed Jenna to mature and to have a chance to witness two other swimmers at the Games. It seemed as if the Lord opened all the right doors for Jenna and she was able to come from her home town of Santa Rosa to live in Whittier and then to participate in the Olympic Games. The Lord did not do this without a lot of hard work on Jenna's part. She trained six to seven times a week along with being involved in a strenuous weight training program. Jenna's mom explained that "Jenna is very motivated to compete," and this is why she has been able to go and put out 100% effort in all she does

Jenna has been given a unique gift from God, and with her warm personality she will be able to share her faith with other athletes on a larger scale. It is hoped by all that she will continue her success into the 1988 Olympic Games in Korea. Good Luck, Jenna!

Goes for Third

we down and how many more to go? That's the question this year for the Varsity Baseball team as they looked to cap ure their third straight Olympic League ti le. After a very successful season last year, oach Doug Domene looked forward to an even better season this year. Key players his year include seniors Kraig Johnson at second base, Eric Tucker in the outfield and pitcher Kevin Chavez pacing the staff Some tremendous sophomore contributors include Mike Neal and Aaron Arrendondo.

The team is viewed as an offensive club As coach Domene puts it "We should be a strong hitting club, but the key will be how well we play defense " Another goal for coach Domene and the team besides winning their third consecutive league champion ship is to reach the finals of the CIF playoffs. "We should do well in league play," explained coach Domene, "and we hope to do well in C.I.F. We must play together and support each others effort!"

discipline and encouragement

Players that stood out included Gregg Hayden, Don Unruh, Matt Wilkerson, Sean Gerold, and Jay Acocks. The experience, defense, and hitting of this ball club shines brightly during the season, and according to pitcher Ralph Ferguson, "We should take the Olympic League title again this year, providing there are no major in juries." Some goals the team set included giorifing the Lord and capturing the league championship. The experience, along with the discipine coach Bravo brought helped assure the JV Baseball team of another successful season

"Mr Endemano really puts a lot of effort to help each person become the best athlete they can be " Marnie Nair pointed out that, "Mr Endemano helps us relate our attitude and our Christian witness to our running with devotions and prayers before practice." Kathleen Cramer also explained

Devoted and Dedicated

he varsity cheerleaders strove to obtain unity and to attend each major spectator sport, and also the sports that did not draw as many fans

During the summer, they met every morn ing to plan for the year's events such as in dividual parties for all the sports teams and getting ready for the National Cheerleading Association camp in preparing for the NCA camp, they did aerobics, had devotions, and suffered through hard practices. At the camp, their efforts all payed off when they won the Spirit Award and were first runners up in the Award of Excellence

The squad enjoyed the fellowship and friends they made with all the sports. The girls frequently performed at a convalescent hospital During the fall sports season the giris kidnapped the football and volleyball

The CIF Football Championship was a very exciting memory for the entire squad because they had prepared and worked for the opportunity all year Their advisors, Miss Moore and Miss Dobrenen, had a positive impact and were very supportive All of the members of the squad agreed that this year was a very successful one

Twirling to Unite

The flagsters' goals were to make the minor teams more recognized, to give them more encouragement and to work on being more united. This taught each girl more responsibility and flexibility

Participating in camp at Whitier College was part of the flagsters' hard work. They learned many new tricks and became ex tremely close with the Maranatha flagsters

"Being a flagster is something you have to want to do," exclaimed Lyn Hornbaker. The flagsters put in excessive amounts of time practicing and have made everyone proud

Sharing & Caring — J.V. Cheer

The J.V. Cheerleading squad strove to reach out to others by making cookies and posters for each football player. These were only some of the responsibilities of a J V cheerleader. Hard work over the long summer helped bring the squad together in friendship. During the summer the J.V

cheerleading squad traveled to Santa Barbara to compete at the NCA Cheerleading Camp at Westmont College. They achieved two superior ribbons and one excellent They also learned new chants and cheers One of the goals of the team was to support all sports equally by attending games and encouraging the players. Each cheerleader spent time visiting convelescent homes which helped them to share their Christianity with others. The time spent together contributed to an excellent J V. cheerleading squad. They were more than a squad — they were friends

SPIRIT is only one way to describe the Pep Rallies the cheerleaders organized to encourage student involvement. They succeeded in making every rally original Each rally was held during the school day with the exception of one night rally. The night rally was held in the hope that more would attend. The flagsters did an excellent job in helping the cheerleaders promote school spirit. Varsity Cheerleader Jacque Hodges commented that the student body helped demonstrate the support each team needed. Miss Costley, Mr. Bravo, Mr. Cuccia, Mrs. Dobbs, Miss Landfear and other faculty members added a lot of en thusiasm to the ralkes. They dressed up as cheerleaders, participated in pie eating con tests, and tried to keep students from wandering off campus for an extra long lunch. Each Pep Rally helped generate ex citement for all upcoming games. The Cheerleading squads and the Flagsters gave their best to support all the teams and promote school spirit memorable excuse for being tardy, she reminisced. A student came in late to school with a story about a sick horse and having to wait for the vet 'Now that's a good one'

The secretaries felt that the relationship between them and the students was one of respect for each other. When asked to comment on the secretaries' opinion of the students Mrs. Dickinson replied. Behind the Scenes Action

The administrators of WCHS during the 1984-85 school year were caring and dedicated people. The combined efforts of the board members and administration brought together a school year filled with improvements and progress Goals that were worked on and achieved were many. On the top of the list was the improvement of student Morale. Mr. Bill McKinley felt that students had "more pride in their school" than two years ago, when he began as superintendent. Also at the top of the list was improved communication with parents which was accomplished by monthly newsletters. A revised and further developed curriculum was also a goal

As these goals were reached unity between administration, teacher and student was reached. Students were able to talk with the administrators and the counsellors felt more students were seeking counselling With all of these good things happening, how could Mrs. Jan Mustin not say that the students were "really neat kids"?

Mrs. Lois Freeman Principal

Light Unto Our Paths

By be classes were a unique part of WCHS which set us apart from public schools. Students took it for four years. Mr. Long. the junior Bible teacher, replied that Bible was important because it applied to the students' eternities

When asked if students of WCHS should study Bible for all four years, there were varied responses: "Certainly, sometimes I wish we didn't have to but I know there are a lot more values to learn," "Yes, because taking a Bible class is one of the benefits of going to a Christian school and we should take advantage of that benefit," and "Yes, every time you study it you always learn something new."

English Expands

The English Department went through some significant changes last summer, thanks mainly to Miss Dianne Landfear and Mrs. Kerry Veale. The first of these changes was a curriculum development where they established a uniformed program for each grade. They felt this was necessary so that each grade would study specifics and nothing would overlap Therefore, students would not be able to complain, "We did this last year!"

The second idea they came up with was a guide to help with term papers, The Whittier Christian High School Research Paper Guide. The purpose for the booklet was to create consistency in the format for term papers. In addition, the English Department welcomed two new teachers to the staff. Mrs. Tammy Friesen and Mrs. Lori Radcliffe. The enthusiasm of these new teachers, along with these ideas presented by Mrs. Veale and Miss Landfear all helped to make this past year a success for the English Department

Diverse Languages and Cultures

iverse languages for diverse cultures exemplied the History and Foreign anguage departments. Many changes arose o make it an extraordinary year History was not just a History class. With he election action in the air students and eachers were eager to be involved and ware. Government classes borrowed the chool's VCR to watch debates between President Reagan and Walter Mondale They hope to purchase a VCR system for next year

The Advanced Placement history classes enjoyed the elections by meeting at one house to watch the results

Another change was the use of Time magazine. Mr. Pate stated, "We started this in order to broaden the kids' minds on what's happening in the world today."

The Foreign Language department has also gone through many changes. More trips and activities have helped the students ex pand their vocabulary. The teachers felt that going on the Europe trip not only would expand their vocabulary but would broaden their cultural awareness Mr Fairbanks' Spanish III class went down to Mexico to an Orphanage. They served the Lord by help ing others and at the same time expanded their vocabulary. All and all Foreign Language and History proved to be an exciting and most successful time of learning his year in Math an exciting Math Club has been benefitting many students Besides competitions, the club also offered tutoring to those who need it. According to Miss Teresa Turner, "It's slow, but getting organized. We've had one math competition, and four or five students are now tutor ing." Some of the high scorers in the competition included Ron Johnson, Charlie Simpson, and David Oh. Although there were larger math classes this year, Miss Turner stated, "Our goal is to push students beyond what they thought they could do."

Science also expanded with a new teacher, Mr. Mick Dean. The expanding science department was hindered early in the year by theft. One evening, most of the microscopes and a few of the balances were stolen. The new teachers added freshness to the classes' agenda and all in all, the losses were outweighed by the gains. The math and science departments had undergone a few changes, both planned and accidental The changes became improvements because of the positive attitudes of both the teachers and the students

rivers' education and physical education was a "break in the day" for many students. After concentrating on stiff academic subjects, it was nice for students to participate in fun sports and games

Mr. Phil Brave and Mr. Barry Drake, the two drivers' education teachers, helped make every sophomore's dream a reality. They taught their students the mechanics of driving safely. They also stressed the importance of driving defensively and not driving under the influence of alcohol Each student was required to research and present a report on drunk driving. This was a very profitable assignment where students became aware of the hazards of drunk driving

Physical education was one of the most popular classes at Whittier Christian. It was a time when students have fun with their friends exercising and competing with each other. The students not only play the different sports but they learn the rules and the correct way of playing. The physical education teachers, Mrs. Kathy Grant, Mr. Don Steward, Mrs. Sandi Searcy, Mr. Dave Herron, and Miss Ruth Sutton all agree that physical education should be a refreshing break in everyone's day usiness and Arts are practical classes that were taken by the students of wCHS The chairman of the Business lepartment, Mr. Brown, taught accounting, ousiness law, and algebra 1. Mr. Brown hought that it was important to take usiness classes in order to develop skills in dealing with personal records and also to serve as an introduction to a career in which a student has an interest. Mrs. Frembling. the typing and shorthand teacher, emphasiz ed the fact that these classes were very "marketable skulls."

The Practical Side of Things

Classes such as art, crafts, drafting, drama, woodshop, photography, and home economics were creative classes that would help students later on in life. According to sophomore Rose Cortez, art was "a way to express your feelings," and she also added, "It's fun!"

1 Garrett Mallard wonders aloud if someday these will be his pictures, 2. hat exactly did the Trumpet Staff do? To the casual observer, all they did was sit around and socialize Rumors had it that they had wild, all-night, worknights and their only complaint was that the staff never had enough pictures. The staff did have fun, but there was a lot of work involved also

JUNE — "All new and old staff members meet for a bar-b-que and pool party!" The highlight of the evening where the old wescomed in the new, was kidnapping April Smith, the new editor, from work and throwing her into the pool, fully clothed, of course

EARLY SEPTEMBER - "Ugh. Do we have to sell ads?" Ad sales were not everyone's favorite thing to do, but for a few weeks work, they brought in the backs

M.DDLE/LATE SEPTEMBER — "What's a quad pack?" "How do you crop pictures?" "Where do I start?" The beginning of the year was a time of learning, however, most of the learning had to come by doing

OCTOBER — "The deadline is in four weeks. I'd better get started." "I don't have any pictures!" "The deadline is in three weeks, I'd better get started I still have no pictures!" So it went until about a week before the deadline — then we got our pictures. The deadline was met, and then we could breath easily until December. One down, three to go!

NOVEMBER — "I'm sure it should be easier now after we have been through one deadline." "Are all my ordered pictures taken?" "Have you interviewed everyone yet?" "The deadline isn't until next month we have plenty of time." After the first big color deadline, everyone began to feel more confident and could afford to relax a little, but just a little.

DECEMBER - "Is she serious? If we don't finish on time we have to come and work during Christmas vaca tion!" December was literally filled with workinghts where everyone worked, are bagels, worked more, are popcorn, worked again, are pizza. High metabolism and a little worry kept us from obesity and allowed us to celebrate deadline #2 at the staff Christmas party

JANUARY — "Where are we going on retreat? We definitely need some relaxation!" With another deadline at the end of the month, the new year brought a lot of work. Tension was eased by aughing at a, the cute pictures parents sent in of their little darlings for senior ads

FEBRUARY "Only one deadline left" When are we going on retreat?" "What about everything that happens after March, how will that get in the book?" since during March everything was to be turned in everyone tried to finish their pages and dream of the time they'd be able to see them in yearbook form

MARCH — "WE MADE IT!" After all was finished and sent off to Taylor Publishing, everyone breathed a sigh of rebel. We treated ourselves by going to Mammoth to ski for the weekend, something that all had looked forward to the entire year.

APRIL/MAY — "Now what?" Robin Harper, ad visor tried to maintain a semblance of structure in her classroom, but everyone did his own thing, from planning the slide presentation for the book distribution to catching up on homework that spring fever prevented the stall from doing at home

JUNE — "They're here!" The finished product ar rived and the staff was allowed first peek. The books were presented, and the old staff members could remember the year fondly while the new and returning staff members geared up for another go at it and another year!

Unforgettable

The year the 1984-1985 Whittier Christian High School Color Guard spent as a team could be described in one word. Unforgettable. This was the first year WCHS combined the drill team and tall flags to become one unit known as Color Guard, under the direction of Nancy Embrey. For the second semester, Becky Nielsen was the drill advisor. The idea behind combining the two into one was to promote unity among the marching units

The squad of more than twenty-five girls started working together in July to prepare a camp routine. At camp in August, everyone became closer and united as a team. Many hours of after-school practice went toward performing in half-time at foot ball games first semester and court competitions second semester. One of the things that pulled the team together was that they enjoyed being with each other and loved to talk. Summing up the whole year, many members agreed, "It was a learning experience,"

Marching Heralds March in Style

CHS was again blessed with a group of sixty-five talented individuals call ed the Marching Heralds. The band par ticipated in many different activities Besides the half-time shows at football games and a pep band at basketball games, the band was involved in parades where they won several 1st place trophies. Performing at Dodger Stadium and marching in the Main Street parade were some highlights of the year

Ken Holt's responsibilities as the drum major and president of the band were basically to command the band and "keep them in line"

Mr. Opfer, director, commented that "the band is out there to represent the school and make them proud." But more importantly, the band is "to glorify God musically."

Unforgettable Spirit

This year's Spirit Week was filled with excitement. Each day students dressed in accordance with the theme of the day Monday was Nerd/Clash Day. Here was a chance for the student body to discard normal, everyday attire and put on those hideous colors and long out-of-date styles On Tuesday, students dressed for Tourist Day. Mickey Mouse ears, Hawailan print shirts, semi-short shorts and stylish sunglasses were pulled out from the backs of closets. Little boys and old women appeared on Wednesday for Senior Citizen/Little Kids Day. Many brought bottles filled with Coke and wheelchairs to assist them through the day. Thursday dawned cold for Greek Day Students were dressed in their best sheets and sandals, which certainly caused frost bite. School spirit was displayed Friday for Red and Gold Day. Red streaked hair and gold outfits were the style for the day. Spirit Week, with strange colors and unusual styles, was not soon forgotten

year it came almost overnight and left its embarrassing mark. Spirit Week. A week of wild and exotic clothing; a week of the eccentric and outlandish; a week to break dress code, a week to be ourselves

Did it all really happen? Will we ever respect ourselves again? Will we ever again look at Tom Soule (sr) and not see the funloving, lunch toting nerd with Crisco in his hair? Will we ever forget the sight of loud bermudas and Hawaiian shirts worn by equally loud, camera-necked people? Will the memory of Mr. Bowman in his pajamas haunt us forever? When we lie in bed will we recognize the sheet we wore to school once? Will we forever remember Randy Aracher (fr) with yellow polka-dots in his red hair? And will the one question on everyones' mind be answered: How did Davin Rhuomaki (sr) go six periods without a shirt and not get caught?

It's all over now. But, the memories will haunt us forever. We can only hope that our children won't find pictures of it in our year books. Polyester has been returned to the closets. Sheets are back on the beds. Hair is back to natural colors. Normality has returned. Spirit Week has come and gone. We may never respect ourselves again. But hey, it worked. We won the football game didn't we? Submitted by — Evan Holloway. Reporter for The Interakt.

Styling In '85

B right colored neons, classic lace, delicate angora sweaters, unique hair styles, bold letterman jackets, and the traditional casual mok all were different, yet blended together to make 85" a stylish year

One could easily distinguish the different styles throughout the campus. The bright colored "trendies" could be seen from afar While on the other hand, the romantic lace and angoras added a touch of class, and once again we had our traditional letterman's jackets and casual look to make this past year's style a completely fashionable year

In addition to the unique dress attire, there was a variety of hair styles. For instance, there was the familiar long, curly style along with the now popular short look, and the wild spiked cut. All of these accented style in "85"

Setting a Spiritual Standard

The ASB council had basically two goals in mind, the most important one being to set a spiritual standard for WCHS students and to work together as a group for the good of everyone in the school. Referring to her council, Miss Dodge, advisor of ASB, stated, "I have never worked with such a spiritual council before."

One of the busiest times of the year for ASB was planning and organizing Homecoming. It was the first time that a spiritual theme was chosen, Reflections of His Glory. Greg Vettel, ASB president, reflected back on the event, "It was a lot of work, but October 20th sure was a fun day! Praise the Lord for it!"

One of the strengths of ASB was its great leadership. This was especially apparent in Greg Vettel. Miss Dodge summed it up when she said, "Greg has demonstrated leadership qualities in organizing, delegating and spiritual leadership that is especially unique for a high school president."

The council looked toward Phillippians 1:6 which says "Being confident of this very thing, that He which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ." From this verse the ASB learned that only God is responsible for changing peoples' lives

In order to promote unity within different groups on campus, a brand new idea was formed. The Whither Christian Leaders in Action consisted of two representatives from each group throughout school who met together once every quarter to discuss goals, plan activities and talk about ideas to present to the administration. Because the representatives were from different groups, the ideas that were discussed "get filtered through the school. It's a chance to have good communication."

When asked to summarize the feeling behind ASB, Greg Vettel stated, "We are a group of young people striving to glorify God Almighty in everything we do."

efore school started in September, the A S.B. council was busily preparing activities for the upcoming year. Long jurs of hard work were spent in concentra n to make the activities successful

The year started with the traditional, yet citing Big Sister party and the all school ate party. Then, Homecoming came with e unique "5th quarter" all school event S B, felt that this proved to be successful e to the participation. As time moved on, e Christmas tree fund raiser came upon em again. Their goal was to make the les smooth and organized. They achieved this by having two students from each organization help and enlisted parents help After Christmas with a lot of thought and hard work, ASB came up with the idea of Leaders in Action. This was a meeting with representatives from each activity on cam pus. Their purpose was to gather ideas and have the chosen representatives share with their activity about what they had learned These were the types of activities that filled the first semester

The second semester consisted of an all school ski day to Gold Mine. Shortly follow ing the ski trip, the Winter Semi-formal took place at Baxter Street. The winter semiformal proved successful and A.S.B. was pleased. In April, the popular donkey basketball game was held. This event consisted of class spirit competitions and games against classes, Next, the ASB had to hold the A.S.B. elections for the following year They made many exciting new changes Finally, the annual Sadie Hawkins took place with fun and excitement, ASB, considered the year one which showed "unity and spiritual growth within our school."

Chapel Strives for His Glory

o strive to glorify God was the Chapel Committee's goal. To achieve such a toal they needed excellent leaders, and the committee had them. Brian Szerenyi and Marguerite Martina, co-chaplains worked along with Miss Dodge to obtain school uni ly. One way they did this was by getting more students involved. The students were able to give different announcements and say flag salutes and prayer. They also tried to introduce more music by christian artists. Brian Szerenyi quotes, "I feel the Christian music will help them grow and get more excited." Marguerite Martine was excited with speaker Gary Horton. I feel it was a controversial chapel that brought up diverse opinions," Chapel committee along with their dediated chaplains met on Monday nights and Wednesday during lunch to plan, pray, and do a lot of hard work. They really appreciated Miss Dodge because she always encouraged them and gave them extra support he first week of the second semester started out in a unique way. It brought ut love, encouragement, and friendship to tudents and faculty. This was Spiritual Emhasis Week' Each day the students and pachers learned many valuable lessons from Mike Slater. He taught them to encourage one another. The theme. Stretcher. Bearer" influenced all to support their friends as a strong stretcher. This helped students realize how important triendships should be. The week closed with the students meeting at Evangelical Free Church in Funerton. The day consisted of choirs voices echoing in the church and a superb Comedy dun Hicks and Cohagen. This uplifting week touched the lives of many and will be remembered by all

re. Phyllis Smith, the choir director, taught her students much more than music and song. She helped them to minister to others in a special way. Their love for God was shown in their many performances

The choir members united as they spent time together on dinners, tours, dinners and in class time. Many students enjoyed a trip to Santa Barbara. They had a great time shopping, eating, going to the movies and walking along the beach. To end their trip to Santa Barbara they performed their musical "Choose" to members at a near by church The musical was a great success because the choir really showed their enthusiasm for their love for God

The different choir groups were not only busy singing this year but they put a lot of ef fort into their different fund-raisers. They sold fruit cakes, Christmas trees, candy, baked goods and they even housed Japanese students for a week

The WCHS musical department consisted of "Herald Chorale," Girls' Chorale" and "Freshmen Choir"

ractice and a lot of hard work paid off for choir. Their performances not only shined, but they had a relaxing retreat. On February 21, 1985 choir had a friends and family performance. This was a time for everyone to get together and enjoy music Excited people united for a fun-filled evening

Earlier in the year, Santa Barbra was the place to have been. Walks along the beach, shopping, eating and the movies, were the activities choir enjoyed in sunny Santa Bar bra. Everyone enjoyed the retreat and it brought the members closer as a whole

Melanie Curtis reflects, "It was a lot of fun and I got to know more people." The retreat and family and friends performance, successfully gave many happy memories to choir members

he WCHS Speech Team better known throughout the years as the talented tongues, found '84'85 to be a year of success Having qualified several members for state championsh ps the team felt that God truly blessed them in a great way. Their coach Miss Diane Landfear, expressed her thankfulness for this, saying

I am grateful for the talented varsity speakers. I am thankful for the influx of new people; and finally, I am appreciative to God for the successes, friendships, and spontaneous times he has given the Speech

During the course of the year, the team attended around lifteen tournaments. There the speakers competed in several events. with such topics as Mr. T, television ("Master or Servant?"), and oppression Although WC was the only Christian school in its league, the competitors were able to more than hold their own against even the argest teams competing. ... Action Putting together a production is hard work. The advisor, Mrs. Emma Risting, puts a lot of time and effort into each and every play.

First she must read and thoroughly go through a script and see that the materia is right for actors and actresses. After reading the play she submitted it to the Administration who must approve all production scripts before they are cast.

The cast ng of a play took about four days to complete. There were approximately 60 students who auditioned for the plays. These auditions were held after school in the drama room. Usually Mrs. Riving casts the plays herself, but with the play. The Butier Did It. Robert Stir. the student director and President of the Drama Club, helped to cast this production.

The rehearsals were three to four days a week, and about three hours a day. The students use their own spare time for the play.

Finally the big night came. The actual performances were given three or four times. The cast and crew have waited a long time and worked so hard for these few performances. After it was all over and the six to eight weeks of auditions, rehearsals, and performances are gone, there's not a single actor who wouldn't do it all over again the students did not get a grade for ail their efforts. They simply got a pat on the back and hearty congratulations.

For the first time at our school we had a Thespian Society. It takes 100 hours of acting or producing to become a member of Troop 3728. The Thespian Society is nation wide. It allows actors and actresses to buy dramatic materials at a discounted price. Being a member allows the actor to attend drama festivals and gatherings. The Tespian Society and others who participated in the plays made the season one of the most successful over.

TELL

My life I would enjoy so much more, If only I had something to live for. Can you give me the answer? Do you know my cure? If you have what you know I need Please come and plant a seed.

You call me "friend;" Yet don't you care where I spend eternity's end. On Judgement Day shall we part, Cause you never told me how Christ may enter my heart? Please tell me how I may go to heaven with you. Cause right now I have no clue.

Your Hellbound Friend

Student Expressions

The Light of Christ ...

Oh what a beautiful sight to see "the Light of Christ shone upon thee" and how bright it so shines, it blesses this heart of mine what a wonder are your glisten ing eyes, as they look toward the skies while you raise your hands up above such a joy to see so much love. The Lord is by your side and to you, He will guide He shall be your friend, yes - until the end how beautiful is The Light of Chirst!

Reflections of His Glory

I saw a reflection . . .

By a pool He stood.

With Brilliance afire, His whisper

set the pool aglow

A shining pool, a glorious pool

Bright waters dancing from the Sun's light

I saw a reflection . . .

The image was distorted but still beautiful for it was in the likeness of its Owner

A shining reflection, a glorious reflection

An abstrack, painted by the Sun's light

And I was thinking ...

Tonight

the stage is set, the curtain about to rise, the stagelights twinkle brilliantly in the night's air, the audience eager in anticipation,

the story: a fairytale with five beaming princesses

Yes, the scene is familiar, the play is not new and yet something is not the same something's amiss, afoot

the focus is "off" ... no.

not off but on . . .

for tonight, Lord, is Yours

Tonight, Lord, belongs to You

And I was thinking . . .

Lord, You are the Mirror, the Maker, the All

Your undying love penetrates us

though we daily struggle to be your reflections and daily fail.

Your all-consuming love envelopes us though many on Your earth do not even know You.

will never know You

But tonight, Lord, is to show

we desire to be like You,

Your image.

in hope that one day we will hear Your resounding voice whisper

I saw a reflection . . .

Poet Laureate

Marguerite Martine has been writing poetry for the past four years. She started her freshmen year and has been writing ever since. When asked why she writes poetry she replied, "to express myself in a different way. It's a challenge — a real challenge."

Marguerite is interested in the theatre and drama. She has been in various productions at our school including Anastasia and The Buttler Did It. In addition to drama Marguerite is involved in speech. She has been on the team for four years and has won trophies in such events as Dramatic Interpretation, Original Oratory, and Programed Reading

Resident Artist

Off and Running

The 1984-85 Resident Artist was Michelle Regnier. Michelle has en joyed art all her life and has taken art classes all four years of high school

Mr. Jon Genberg, the WCHS art teacher, chooses the Resident Artist The choice usually is someone he has worked closely with through the years. Michelie is responsible for doing artwork which is requested by various campus groups. Some of her work included the Homecoming reception announcement, College Night posters, and Speech Team posters.

When asked if her plans for the future included art she replied, "no, not really " Doing art is mainly a hobby for Michelle

he California Scholastic Federation is an honor earned by many Whittier Christian High School Students. To be eligible, the students must have taken at least four solids and they are required to have three A's and one B. CSF members are eligible after their semester grades come out. This gives the students two chances to receive the CSF honor

Their advisor, Mrs. Vicki Rudisill, organized and planned CSF activities and field trips. Many students enjoyed their trips to Disneyland, Dinner Theatres, and to the Huntington Library. Their day at Huntington Library was a time for learning and fun. They took a tour through the Library, walked through the gardens, and looked at the fascinating art exhibits

CSF is a well known honor and was regarded highly by colleges. Many students receive scholarships every year for being members of CSF. These CSF students continuously worked hard to excell in their school work, and their work payed off in their futures

Fleeting Phases

Orwell's newspeak and Big Brother Looking back, we could more accurately call it the year of Cyndi Lauper and the Cab bage Patch doll. But as we reflect on the foods, phases, faces and phrases of last year, many other pictures also come to mind

In the world of television, viewers were greeted by a Bill Cosby series which made it to the top with old standbys: "Cheers", "A-Team", and "Hill Street Blues." Unending "bloopers" were also shown, exposing the stars in their most humbling moments. UHF t.v. allowed us to see the ultra-conservative Wally George as he attacked liberals on his weekly show, "Hot Seat."

A basically uneventful year in screen production, '84 did offer a few movies which made the hours waiting in theater lines worth it. "Ghostbusters" was at the top of the list in most people's minds, as well as "Footloose", "Purple Rain", "Splash", and "Gremlins." Additionally, anything starring Eddie Murphy could be assured to become a hit. Strangely, most movies seen by America weren't watched from uncomfortable seats and with popcorn and Jujubees in hand, VCR's made it possible to see every movie made from the privacy of one's own living

Most music lovers came to know Rick Dees as their best friend, keeping their radio dials glued to KIIS FM. Others didn't just listen, but instead went out to see the stars in person . . . the biggest concerts of the year were Bruce Springsteen's, U-2's and the Jacksons' — to name just a few. In December, Band-Aid (made up of the English rock community) brought Christmas spirit and help for starving Ethiopians with their song, "Do They Know it's Christmas" — a new twist for rock music

Well, the image of 1984 is almost complete. But for a clearer picture, look at the typical American from last year . . . he can be seen "mousse"ing his hair in the latest fashion before rushing off to school. At lunch we can watch as he finishes off a cafeine-free cola. And lastly, inevitably, we hear him as he mutters that too-familiar phrase

Nineteen eighty-four . . . if Big Brother were watching, what would he have thought?

"Where's the Beef?"

change in attitude was prevelant throughout the nation in 1984 Events that captivated the country's interest also signaled the reawakening of national pride and spirit. Speculation over whether or not this mood would last came too late, this new feeling made 1984 remarkable

Early in the year, the huge task of refurbishing the 98-year old Statue of Liberty began. Construction was to be funded solely by private donations and was scheduled to be completed in 1986. Workers climbed the huge scaffolding to repair damages and clean the stains of exposure to the elements. The reconstruction of the Statue paralleled the change of the actual face of the nation. The U.S. was trying to repair its image from within and started the repairs on Manhattan Island

In July, the Twenty-third Olympiad came to Los Angeles. Beginning with the carrying of the torch by in dividual runners across America, patriots lined the run ners' pathways to cheer them on or merely watch with pride. At the games themselves, resounding cheers of "U.S.A" greeted all atheletes. Although we were accused of extreme nationalism, the fervor was merited in the winning of 174 medals. Names in the headlines in cluded Jeff Blatnich - wrestler, Mary Decker - run ner, Jenna Johnson — swimmer, Carl Lewis — runner Greg Louganis — diver, Edwin Moses — hurdler, and Mary Lou Retton — gymnast National pride soured and sympathy for the Soviet bloc nations who succombed to Russian pressure to boycot reminded all of the 1980 Olympics. Romania took a stand for in dependence and had the support of the free world when they attended the games. Peter Ueberroth, Time's Man of the Year deserved much of the credit for the smooth success of the games

Success followed a failure for NASA's Space Shuttle missions. Two satellites went off course in February and the Shuttle Discovery was sent to the rescue. For the first time, man soared through space untethered and alone and brought the two lost satellites back to the ship and safely home

Finally, in November the nation elected Ronald Reagan to the White House for another four years by an overwhelming 49 state mandate. The compaigns brought up a number of new issues. The Democrat's Jesse Jackson was the first black to be seriously in the running for a major part's nomination. Also, for the first time in history, a woman, Geraldine Ferraro, received the Democrat's nomination as Vice-Presidential running mate for Walter Mondale Issues such as the involve ment of church with state and the morality of abortion were heatedly discussed and pondered. When Reagan won the approval of the usually Democratic young vote, researchers viewed the change as a sign that conser vatism was on the rise and the positive national outlook that Reagan identified himself with received a strong vote of approval

Throughout the year, the gradual change in attitude was encouraged by many diverse events. No matter how long the outlook survives, 1984 was marked by a feeling of positive patriotism

I Mary Lou Retton's perfect vault earns her a score of 10 and worldwide recognition for her gold medal. 2 Caught in the middle of campaigning, Ronald Reagan is a study of business and relexation. 3 Repairing the face of the Lady and the image of the nation. 4. Other Headlines

The year of the Rat and the year of Big Brother were ominous signs for 1984. The world was beset by sorrows which have become all too familiar, commonplace, and ignored. But also, positive occurences helped to alleviate the sting of the tragedies and restore optimism to many

At the beginning of the year, AT&T's phone monopoly was disbanned and people in Hacienda Heights had their area code changed from 213 to 818. Although it was not a major change, many found it annoying to be confronted by an operator's voice telling them to dial again

In July, one insane killer took the lives of 21 innocent victims and wounded 19 others in a mere ninety minutes. At a MacDonald's in SanYsidro, California, the murderer went on a shooting spree until police could stop him with a bullet. The families involved will continue to feel the pain and loss each time the carnage is mentioned

The nation underwent a few revisions in the fall months. The U.S. received its first ranking Soviet visitor since Reagan had been in office, Andrei Gromyko. The Russians realized that President Reagan would probably occupy the office for another four years and therefore sent their foreign secretary calling The U.S. also pulled the Marine troops out of Lebanon. The men had been placed there to keep the peace, but many terrorist attacks and a lack of progress prompted the public to ask for their removal. Finally, controversy surrounded the case of tiny Baby Fae when she received a simian heart to replace her damaged one She survived longer than any other baboon heart transplant patient (39 days)

Toward the end of the year, the number of newsworthy events increased. England's Prime Minister, Margaret Thatcher, was victim of an Irish Republican Army terrorist at tack when the hotel in which whe was staying was bombed. While unburt, the close call shook up the nation and proved that no country's leader was truly safe. In Mexico, gas containers exploded and the blast and raging fires killed more than 300 people. Generosity was rushed in, disproving the belief that the world was apathetic to all but its own citizens. In November, William Schroeder received an artificial, mechanical heart, the second human ever to undergo the transplant. The heart was more readily accepted than expected and Schroeder's first words following the operation were in the request of a beer, which illustrated his high spirits

In December, a leak at the Union Carbide plant in Bhopal, India released poisonous gasses which killed or blinded and deformed thousands. The industrial accident brought safety into question and companies worldwide checked their own safety precautions in order to prevent another such catastrophe

The varied events, both catastrophes and good news, helped to shape the year Americans were mostly sheltered from the horrors of other nations, but sometimes the stories pulled us out of our apathy and into positive action

I Relief came flooding in from all over the world to help the starving millions, but the Marxist Ethiopian government was loo busy celebrating its dictator's an niversary to help its own people 2. William Schroeder and Baby Fae not only underwent delicate heart transplants, but captivated the heart of the notion and the interest of the science world. 3. After being the target of many terrorist attacks, the President removed the Marines from Lebanon, to the relief of their families. and Congress 4. Helping Students Help Themselves

Ew people knew about the Learning Center on campus and even fewer knew what it was all about. Since November of 1983, Mr. Bill Cuccia has been in charge of helping students with learning disabilities

Students are recommended to the center by their teachers. Teachers have been informed to look for the signs of a learning disability. A person who has a disability has an "average or above average IQ, but has process problems," in the words of Mr. Cuccia. Process problems include a disruption in the receiving or the transmitting of information from the brain. Many people have the misinterpretation that a learning disability is a sign of low intelligence, and this stigma will often hinder students from seeking help. Consequently, many students will receive their first help in high school, going through their early years of school understanding what they are taught, but not being able to express it and not knowing how to change

The center supplies the therapy to help the students discover how to develop these skills on their own and how to correct their process problems. After being recommended by a teacher, a student will take a strenuous 8-hour diagnostic test to discover their disability. Then Mr. Cuccia, Sherri Baumgardner, Carolyn Stewart, or Brenda Coleaon, set up an individualized program to help the student. All through the preliminary work, the therapists communicated closely with the parents with explanations and definitions of their child's difficulties

Then the students begin the hard work Each student works with one of the therapists twice a week for 1½ hour sessions in their office. During the session, they are trained to increase their ability to do two things at once, such as writing while being orally drilled in academic subjects. The students are willing to work hard in the intense drilling, and because of their intelligence, usually show rapid progress. Diligently working at home and at school some students raise their C or D grades in the first quarter to honor roll level during the second semester.

The Learning Center program was in itiated by Mr. Art Cain at Whittier Christian Elementary School. He asked Mr. McKinley if he would be interested in continuing the program at the high school level Mrs. Coleson and Mr. Cuccia then went to training courses to learn how to help because they felt this service was needed and rewarding. The Learning Center helped a total of 21 students on both campused learn how to overcome their disability.

Math Club I

Every sixth week Math Club members met in Miss Turner's room to work on a set of math problems. The results of the testing were later tailled and compared with other schools throughout the state. In February, top members were chosen to take a ninety minute test which would offer some of them the opportunity to compete with the top one percent of math students in the state. Later in the year, a few members were also involved in a tutoring program with students in lower math levels their lunches, members of the Chess Club were engaging in a battle of the minds. Under the guidance of Mr. Hilderbrand, the club met regularly for the relaxing games which eventually prepared them for the intense all school tournament in February and March. Participants included, Bryan Culp, Wade Hallisey, Dan Harpel, Ron Johnson, Daryl Lancaster, and Glenn Yeik. When the members found the time, they also competed with other schools in the area, such as La Serna and La Habra

Mission's Club

It has been an extremely successful year for Whittier Christian's first Mission's Club. Supervised by Mr. Dean, Mr. Hilderbrand, Mr. Westrup and Miss Wilson, students organized a toy drive for Children's Hospital of Orange County, sent hundreds of Bibies to Chile and other Latin American countries, and worked at an orphanage in Mexico during March. They also helped to enlighten the student body to the needs and goals of missions by hosting a "Mission's Night" for the entire school

A New Addition

he newest sport to hit W C.H S. was Boys' Volleyball. Many boys showed heir interest in belonging to this team Coach Dave Herron organized and set up the schedules for the team members. The eam competed with many near by secular schools. Coach Herron felt that his team

To our Son Doug:

Seventeen years - how they have flown by so quickly, yet how full of rich experiences they have been for all of us. How very proud we are of you right now as you are graduating from high school, maturing into manhood, and entering a new exciting chapter of your life.

How can a parent ever measure the love they feel, or describe the joy they experience in watching their son develop. You've come far! The first days of school as a small child — the 12 fully-packed years of baseball and football, and the pride of having our son out there on the field demonstrating high levels of discipline — the many family vacations and heart-to-heart discussions drawing us even closer together — your childhood decision to accept Christ as Lord of your life, then your teenage testimony of baptism.

How we have enjoyed all this and being a part of your "fast-lane" life style! Your contagious love for life, you sensitivity to others, your determination to succeed, your affec-fighate, with, spirited personality, has been enrighing, amazing, and challed quit been the secression ghts of listening for your parito drive up the driveway at the prescribed time. In how finder the nightficance. We've all survived!

With high school now behind you are the door of pip into ty open ahead out orestest desire is for you to become a genuine man of God to continue to grow or lier to Him and true Him to directly, in life. May the beautifulgual fies you possess multiply a retouch many others.

We're proud to be your Mom and Dad!

Thank you Lord, for giving us Doug!

Thank you Doug, for being you!

If you want favor with both God and man, and a reputation for good judgement and common sense, then trust the Lord completely; don't ever trust yourself. Jacqueline (Jitterbug)

In 1966 the Lord brought us the joy of our life — a 6 lb, 8 oz, 21½ inch baby girl. From the day we first met you, we noted a joyous sparkle in your powder-blue eyes. That sparkle has been pervasive in your personality and has seen us through eighteen exciting and cherished years. Before you hit your second anniversary, you had pulled down and decapitated our Christmas tree, investigated every square inch of the kitchen cupboards, and conquered our roof and fences. Docile, lady-like years followed — knocking over girls in soccer, competing with boys in baseball, flipping in gymnastics, and tackling teammates in basketball. The discovery of boys brought modeling along with Jacque's harem and endless hours of monopolizing AT&T. Through thick and thin, through the red rose of Tivoli, Jacque, your insatiable appetite for life and to be involved has continued to flourish. We are sure that, with the Lord, you will continue to sparkle and continue to be that very, very special person we have always seen in you. Jacque, in going out into the world, we want to give you one last point of advice—stay the way you are and happiness will be yours.

Dear Karen.

From a precious little gift of God to a beautiful young lady, you have brought joy and love. Always know how very proud we are of you and that we love you very much

As you now move on to new challenges and decisions remember Proverbs 3:5, 6 — "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him and he shall direct thy paths."

Congratulations and love, Mom and Glen; Dad and Tim; Billy and Tammy

Dear Ken,

We are so grateful that God has given you to be under our care. We are very proud to be your parents. You are maturing into a lovely and Godly young lady. Although it is hard to watch you grow up and begin your own independent life, far greater is the joy that your trust in the Lord, your commitment to righteousness and your demonstrated love for your family and friends has given us. We love you as always and will always.

Love, Mom and Dad

Dear Colleen:

Your mother and I agree ... it just doesn't seem possible!

Here you are all grown up as a young lady, ready to launch out into life before we can bring ourselves to believe it's really happening. Seems like only last week you first stepped onto the high school campus. The song from Fiddler on the Roof is so true:

"Sunrise, sunset . . . sunrise, sunset,

Swiftly fly the years."

But whether we are ready or not, sweetheart, the time has arrived and you are soon to graduate. How proud we are of you! We affirm your ideals, we applaud your achievements, we admire your leadership. It gives us great pleasure to reflect on your school years and to realize what a delightful period of time they have been. And haven't they been fun? You will have to agree, few people could have packed more into those years than you have, and we wouldn't have had it any other way.

You have what it takes to succeed in life, Cols. Knowing this, we have confidence in you. You know yourself quite well. Thankfully, you do not struggle with low self esteem ... but neither do you have an overly inflated ego. That healthy balance between security and humility will enable you to handle whatever peer pressure you may encounter. You also have a happy disposition, which will get you through the tough times ahead. Whatever you do, don't lose that clever sense of humor! This gloomy world needs all the laughter you can give it. You care about people and you demonstrate your love to them, which means your list of friends will always be long.

We are especially pleased to observe that your relationship with Christ is genuine. You feel deeply about His word, His work, and His will, Good for you! We are so glad that you have resisted the temptation to "mouth" a lot of empty religious jargon. You have, instead, cultivated an authentic walk with the Saviour. Press on. Never stop. Don't even slow down.

May your future be marked by these four objectives:

*An untiring pursuit of excellence

*An unswerving commitment to integrity

*An enduring enjoyment of life

*An enriching walk with the Lord our God

If it is, our investment in you over these years will repay us with the finest dividend parents can expect from a daughter: our little girl will have become a woman of God.

With all our love, Mom and Dad

Dear Bee:

Well, here you are at that point in your life, which not so very long ago, seemed so many years away!

We are blessed to have you as an important part of our family, you've always brought us much joy and happiness. It's been rewarding to watch you grow and develop into such a neat person.

We've had many happy days together, and one of my happiest was the day when you were in the first grade and I came to pick you up from school. You were so bubbly as you got into the car and said, "Guess what I did at school today, Morn." Then you added, "I stayed in at recess to do it." After I guessed some things I thought a first grade boy might do, you said, very excitedly, "I asked Jesus into my heart!" I cherish the memory of that afternoon.

Now, as you face a new (and probably scarier) part of your life, I want you to know that I will continue to support you with my love and prayers. Always stand strong for what is right, even if you must stand alone (it won't always be easy), and remember that you and God are the majority in every situation.

I love you, Mom

It seems like just yesterday that the doctor stated with joy that my waiting was over — He said, "It's a boy!"

Do you remember each night, when regular as a clock, you'd look up and say, "I want Honey to rock"?

So we would sit in the rocker and rock you to sleep and sing about animals, like tigers and sheep.

And during the years, (about 17 or so), it's been neat to stand by and watch as you grow.

But the one thing, I think that sets you apart is the fact that the Saviour lives in your heart.

And, now as you start on a new journey in life remember that it will not be without strife.

But, never forget through the good times and bad that I'll always be proud that I am your Dad!

Love. Dad

Gindi Scaffield

Tammy,

What can I write to express how we feel? Dad say's, "Write a poem", like it's no big deal. But how can we say just how proud we are? Rob says show her by buying her a car! She's still our baby all cuddly and sweet, But oh our baby has grown over 5 feet! She's a baby no more, but a beautiful young girl, And soon she'll fall in love and go off in a whirl. And we'll lose her to a nice young man, Daddy says this is more than he can stand! But now she's at a point in her life, Which has been happy and full and sometimes given to strife. Now your graduating and to college you'll go, Why do these babies have to go and grow? From the time you were our tiny little baby, Until today when you are a precious young lady. God has directed your life and shown you the way, He's always been there, you just had to pray. We gave you to Him when you were a baby, Now Lord here she is, this is your young lady. We've loved her and nourished her in your own ways, As she steps out into this world where it's easy to stray, We ask you to keep her in your loving care, Because there's none other like her, she's so very rare. She's loving and helpful, tender and kind, And you've seemed to bless her with a strong mind. Use her for your glory, show her the way, We love her so much, guide her in every way.

Love and Kisses. Dad and Mom

I'm proud to be your brother! Hope you left me some good times at WCHS.

Love your great brother, Robbie

OH, TIMOTHY, YOU ARE GOD'S MAN. RUN...

It was January 25, 1973. You were in kindergarten.

The Living Bible was open on the kitchen table.
You were excited to see your name in the Bible!
As you looked at that last line on the page,
you could read all the words!
That day we claimed that passage for you.
In its entirety it reads:

Oh, Timothy, you are God's man.
Run from all these evil things and work instead at what is right and good, learning to trust him and love others,
and to be patient and gentle.
Fight on for God.
Hold tightly to the eternal life which God has given you, and which you have confessed with such a ringing confession before many witnesses. Il Timothy 6:11-12 LB

The race is beginning now. One lap is finished. You have run well . . . and we are proud of you! You carry your name with you . . .

TIMOTHY EARL HEDRICK

a name given by your father and grandfather. More importantly, you carry the name of Jesus. Run your race well, faithful to the end.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Dear Brena:

Eighteen years ago, in the Philippines, you were born into our little family. I took only a few days to recognize that charming quality that has marked your life - a quiet, unassuming, cooperative spirit. Our lives have been challenged and convicted as we have seen your desire for total obedience, not only to us and your teachers, but especially to the Lord. In your gentle way, you decided to submit your time, talents, and energies to every opportunity which came along. Acting and singing parts, cheerleading, parties for your friends, drill team, school leadership, summer missions - you have selflessly participated in all these, and more. This driving ambition to be involved in all that is good, Brena, gives us nothing but by and peace as we anticipate your future and the ventures that you will feelled to pursue. Your sensitivity to God's Holy Spirit in your heart will, as in the past, continue to make you teachable, usable, and able to bring only glory to our Saviour

We love you very much,

Dad & Mom

Dear Kimberly,

Congratulations on your graduation. You have excelled in athletics and enjoyed the fellowship of many friends through all your school years. "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." Philippians 4:13 Kimberly, you're one of the greatest blessings God have given me. You are very special.

I love you, Mom

Dear Lisa,

I'm glad you made it through Whittier Christian. There were times when I had my doubts. Just kidding. I am so proud of you. You have grown so much in only 17 years. It's really hard to turn you loose, but I know this must happen for you to continue to grow into who you will be as an adult.

When you sat on my lap many years ago, I never thought you would be as beautiful as you are — both inside and out. I thank your mother for what she did for you when I was not around. I hope you will always remember your roots — those who helped you get here.

Our love, Mom and Dad (Mc Whinney)

Editor's Note

Well, the party itself is over. The 1984-85 school year has passed and everyone made it through. Although it was heetic and the problems that faced us at times seemed to overwhelm each person, leafing through this book reminds all of the good memories that each person accumulated during the year. It has been our priviledge, pleasure and challenge as a staff to help recreate the year in the 1985 Trumpet. Faced with this immense task, we knew that without the Lord's assistance, our job could have proven to be too large for us to handle We realized that if we tried to give God the glory for our publication, He would supply the patience, perseverance, and ability to make our deadlines, keep our sanity, and produce the best quality yearbook we could

We also had help from others on campus. Non-staff members who made significant contributions included Brian Perry for his candid shots from the Freshman campus, the third period Photo class for their gifts of candid shots, Mr. Jon Genberg for filling in as photographer when needed and for bearing with the mess we left in his room after particularly busy worknights, Dorian Taylor for his professional portraits and always friendly advice, Candace Johnson for doing a great job in taking over as our Taylor
